PEAD: Property Entry Advisory and Declaration

The CDC and DRE recommends real estate professionals abide by certain guidelines during the COVID-19 pandemic. CRMLS Matrix and Glide have teamed up to help you stay compliant with these guidelines.

What is Glide?

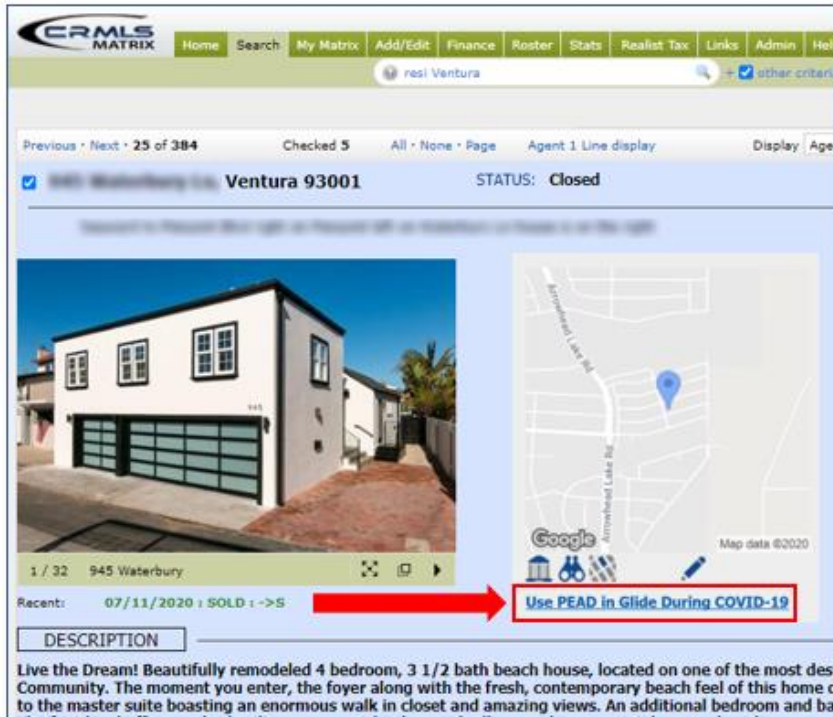

Glide is a forms solution product. Glide provides a safe, client-friendly alternative to paper disclosure forms, including the C.A.R. PEAD form. For more information on Glide, visit <https://www.glide.com/>.

What is the C.A.R. PEAD form?

C.A.R. PEAD stands for California Association of REALTORS® Property Entry Advisory and Declaration. This is a form to be given to and signed by the seller, buyer, agents, and anyone else who is entering a property during the course of a real estate transaction. The form details recommended best practices for marketing, showing, and closing on properties while maintaining compliance with CDC and DRE recommendations.

How do Matrix and Glide work together?

Matrix has integrated a link titled PEAD Form – to use during COVID-19 on each property listing detail page that will seamlessly send users to Glide (see below). Glide will direct you to create an account and access the PEAD form.

How does this help your business?

It's an easy way to ensure you are getting the proper forms signed in order to remain compliant with CDC and DRE recommendations during COVID-19.
