

Notify your clients of new listings via email or Collab Center

You asked, we listened

We're always listening to your feedback here at CRMLS. As we finalize the remaining details of last month's Paragon Upgrade, we're bringing back one widely requested feature.

As of today, you may once again turn on automatic email notifications for saved searches.

Since the upgrade, only Collab Center automatic notifications have been available. Now, you'll be presented with another option for automatic notifications:

If you select Email notifications, the system will present you with the same screen you're used to seeing in your old system to setup the notification options.

Thanks for your continued support!
