

What's new from this past April

Our monthly catchup with our users

Spring has fully sprung, and it's been another busy month at CRMLS. To catch you up on what's been going on, here's another monthly installment of CRMLS: In Case You Missed It (ICYMI). As a reminder, we send out weekly ICYMI pop ups, so check in on your system every Monday for the latest news as it's happening!

Your New Dashboard Is Coming Soon

In Q2 of this year, your current dashboard will be replaced with the REcenterhub dashboard, a new way to access not just MLS listings but also your current CRMLS products and a plethora of new tools and features. Enjoy new customization and personalization options so you can create a wholly personal dashboard.

(Formerly Listing Toolbox)

Get started with the dashboard today by clicking the REcenterhub tile in your current dashboard (pictured above). You can also read up on its functions here.

The Launch of the New Data Aggregation and Distribution System: REDistribute

With more and more industries seeking real estate data, it's important for us and other MLSs to have transparency on how our data is being used. REDistribute, a joint venture that CRMLS helped develop, officially licenses MLS data for institutional use, so businesses in those industries can make smarter decisions based on better information. Read more about it here.

Did You Know?

Down Payment Resource (DPR), a CRMLS core product, has a robust IDX feature that can help generate more leads for you and lead your clients to the down payment options they need — all at no additional cost. Best of all, DPR can help set it all up. If you'd like to know more, login to DPR via your dashboard or watch this quick video.

As always, we thank you for your continued support. To stay caught up with CRMLS, make sure to follow us on Facebook, Twitter, LinkedIn, Instagram, and YouTube!

Thank you,
