

CRMLS users will enjoy new, deep location intelligence data

Learn more about this new resource, available soon

Today, CRMLS and Local Logic, a location intelligence provider that quantifies location at scale, have announced an agreement that will bring Local Logic's services to CRMLS users.

Local Logic's products will be accessible in existing CRMLS tools and included in future product solution launches, which means users will be able to access data insights on subjects such as demographics, school information, community profiles, and more. The inclusion to CRMLS systems is anticipated to take place in the summer of this year. Please watch for more communications about Local Logic's uses and functionalities for users.

To learn more about the agreement, please read this press release.

Thank you for your continued support as we bring more new services to our users.
