

What's new from this past May

Our monthly catchup with our users

It's been another busy month at CRMLS. You may have seen some of our executive team at the last RESO conference or heard the news about CRMLS's recent product agreements. Let's catch up on all that's been happening for May 2023.

CRMLS announces agreement with Local Logic

CRMLS and Local Logic, a location intelligence provider, have signed an agreement to bring CRMLS users powerful and precise local data, including neighborhood profiles, school data, and more. Local Logic's data will be integrated into current CRMLS tools later this year and will be included in future product solution launches. Find more details in our press release.

CRMLS CEO Art Carter joins RentSpree's new leadership board

Art Carter has become a part of RentSpree's first-ever "Rental Industry Leadership Board" to determine the most effective ways for MLSs to support the real estate professionals and millions of consumers who rely on the rental market. Find out more about the new board in this press release.

CRMLS announces agreement with WellcomeMat

CRMLS and WellcomeMat, the creators of a video hosting platform designed specifically for the real estate industry, have entered an agreement to bring CRMLS users innovative new video software for their listings. You can read more about why WellcomeMat is the preferred real estate video hosting software in this press release.
