Happy Holidays!

As we wrap up what has been an eventful year (to say the least), I wanted to take a moment to reflect on what a journey 2024 has been.

In the biggest occurrence of the year, and what some may say in the history of the industry, 2024 saw the commissions lawsuits come to a head. To be frank, their rulings fundamentally reworked how we think about real estate. The uncertainty and confusion were palpable, and I personally made the rounds and attended conferences, office meetings, and more to help guide how everyone was responding to the shifts and changes. It was a great opportunity to meet people where they were, hear out their issues or concerns, and use that feedback to better steer CRMLS's response. As we continue to adapt, I feel more confident than ever in our response to industry shakeups. It's now up to us to prove how CRMLS can bring continued value to its users.

Even though the commissions lawsuits took up a lot of oxygen in 2024, we at CRMLS were busy helping our users thrive while strategizing for a successful 2025. We launched several new products for users to showcase their inherent value, built out our data sharing network to bring access to more data than ever, and our support staff continued to offer their award-winning assistance.

While this past year consisted of a series of adjustment periods, I was impressed and thrilled by the unity and resilience of our brokerage community and userbase as a whole.

2025 will be another year of changes and opportunity, and CRMLS has big initiatives and new things to show you after the calendar flips. For now, I hope that all of you get a well-deserved break and have a very lovely holiday. As always, thank you all for your support and for being such outstanding real estate professionals.

Thank you,

Art Carter
Chief Executive Officer
